

You're Protected from Business Identity Theft

What Is Business Identity Theft?

Business Identity thieves will typically impersonate businesses in order to steal their assets, money, and reputation. They can also steal your customers' information, harming them, and costing you future business. Once you register your critical data online, it becomes a public record and anyone change it.

What Should I Do If I'm Targeted?

It's imperative that you act quickly. That is why Company Alarm's 24/7 monitoring and real-time alerts are vital. Contact your SOS, FBI, FTC, and credit report agencies.

How Is My Business Protected?

We developed software to monitor your business' online information for any changes to your addresses, phone numbers, or managing members. The moment anything is changed, we send you a text message with the specific details. If the change was something you or your partners authorized, no big deal. But if it's not, our early warning gives you plenty of time to contact your bank and the authorities to prevent criminals from ruining your business.
